Terres de rivières

Les départements de la Creuse, la Dordogne, la Haute-Vienne doivent leurs noms aux magnifiques rivières les traversant et façonnant leurs paysages. Les Françaises et Français sont fortement attachés à ces territoires sauvages et préservés.

DORDOGNE

Connue dans le monde entier, la Dordogne doit sa renommée aux trésors qu'elle recèle tout au long de ses cours d'eau. Grottes ornées, châteaux, forteresses médiévales, villages, belvédères... La vallée de la Dordogne et certains sites prestigieux sont d'ailleurs classés au patrimoine mondial de l'Unesco.

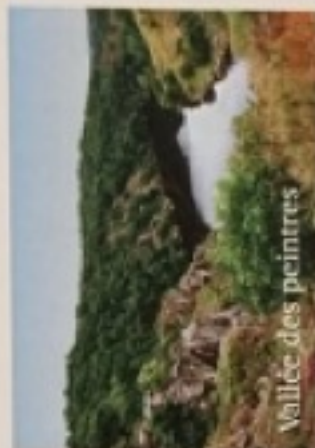

HAUTE-VIENNE

Notion des réserves naturelles et sites emblématiques protégés, la Haute-Vienne est traversée par la Vienne prenant sa source sur le plateau de Millevaches. Cette rivière, l'un des plus grands affluents de la Loire, présente de nombreux sites d'intérêt scientifique, culturel, touristique, sportif, paysan.
